De-funk-ify Your Gear at Nationals

It's the end of the season and your gear smells. You know it, your girlfriend knows it and your roommates know too. Nationals will be your chance to make things right again. The NCRHA has asked Syndicate Sanitation to bring their mobile gear sanitation unit to Nationals. Syndicate offers an ozone based sanitation system that kills odor causing bacteria including MRSA and Staph. Your gear comes back dry and germ free. The best part is Syndicate applies a surface protectant that kills germs for 90 days so the results last long after nationals. The work is performed on site so no worries about lost or missing gear.

A special tournament rate of $30 per set of equipment is offered to anyone who wants to drop their gear during nationals. Here's how it works:

Syndicate will have time slots set up for drop off and pick up. Just see the schedule when you arrive. You can pick up your gear anytime after the posted time. Or just leave it for overnight service and pick it up the next day.

Here's what they sanitize- All of your equipment. From helmets to skates you're taken care of. They'll have bags so you can take your jerseys, socks, pants and other non protective items out of your bag. Goalies- They sanitize everything including helmets and leg pads at no extra charge!

So go bug your folks for some extra cash and plan to drop your gear. Find out more about Syndicate at SynSan.com.
